

A CENTURY OF SUBMARINES

Peter Lawrence

Jackie Fisher, First Sea Lord at the Admiralty, who dragged the Royal Navy kicking and screaming into the twentieth century. Although he regarded submarines principally as localised defensive weapons, he at least recognised their potential, unlike many of his contemporaries. His enemies, and there were many, scathingly dismissed submarines as 'Fisher's toys'.

A CENTURY OF SUBMARINES

Peter Lawrence

The History
Press